

Read My Picture

Which picture will we be reading today?

Photo courtesy of taniadimas (@pixabay.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Vocabulary Victor wants to know...

What adjective could you use to describe the waves?

Rex Retriever wants to know...

In what setting was this picture taken?

Summarising Sheba wants to know...

Can you sum up what is happening in the picture in 20 words or less?

Inference Iggy wants to know...

What might the man be pointing at?

Predicting Pip wants to know...

What do you think the man will say to the child?

Cassie the Commentator wants to know...

What would be different about this picture if they were stood in a field?

Arlo the Author wants to know...

If you could give this picture a title, what would you call it? Why?

I would use the adjective rippling to describe the waves.

This picture was taken on the beach.

A man and a small boy are stood on the beach, pointing to something in the distance.

The man might be pointing to a creature he can see in the water.

The man might say to the child, "Look over there!"

If the man and boy were stood in a field, there would be no waves, there would be grass instead of sand and they would be wearing different clothes.

I would call this picture 'Something in the Water' because the man is pointing at something he can see in the waves.

