SOLVED

Every great story has a problem and a resolution.

Your mission is to create them.

Problems and resolutions are an essential part of any writer's toolkit.

- Working with a partner, take it in turns to reveal a Problem Solved Activity Card.

- Read the problem aloud.

- Now, think of a possible resolution to share with your partner that could solve the problem on your card.

Kato was scared of the lion and knew that it would soon be getting dark. His arms were growing weaker and weaker and he worried that he wouldn't be able to hold on to the branches of the trees for much longer. Just as he was about to lose all hope, an engine sounded in the distance. At last, they had found him!

The lion had chased Kato up a tree and was now waiting at the bottom.
